

Capability Statement

Critical Infrastructure Risk Management

Are you a responsible entity that must comply with Security of Critical Infrastructure (SOCi) legislation?

Disruptions to critical infrastructure can have serious implications for business, government and the community. The SOCi Act seeks to strengthen the security and resilience of Australia's critical infrastructure and essential services by embedding preparation, prevention, and mitigation activities into standard business practices.

As an entity that owns or manages one of the 200+ critical infrastructure assets in health care and medical, water, electricity, gas and/or transportation sectors, you have a responsibility to develop, implement and maintain a critical infrastructure risk management program (CIRMP) and annual reporting mechanisms to meet the enhanced regulatory framework (outlined in SOCi Act).

Managing a critical infrastructure in one of these asset classes may require professional support to uplift your core risk management practices through the modification of existing business capabilities, processes, products and services or through the development and implementation of new practices to comply with the SOCi Act.

With a project management and risk & resilience foundation and broad exposure to a variety of industries including supply chain and logistics, banking, mining, energy, water and ports, Willmann Consulting is situated to provide a holistic and proactive approach to assisting your business or government department in enhancing your plans and developing reporting mechanisms to meet SOCi reporting and governance needs.
